Joshua Cooperman

Joshua has 15 years of professional teaching experience and has been certified with the USPTA for over 10 years.

Joshua has trained and worked with several nationally ranked juniors, college and tour-level players and coaches.

Joshua's methodology includes a comprehensive approach that focuses on competition, strategy, technique, and off-court training, including strength training, nutrition and mental toughness.

Joshua graduated summa cum laude from the Barrett Honors College at ASU.

Most of my early teaching experience was focused on training nationally ranked juniors. I helped place around 20 collegiate scholarships over a 5-year period and was the primary hitting partner for many of these juniors, while I ran daily programs for all of the 12 and under juniors.

After leaving to begin my own academy at the Phoenician, I had continued success helping several juniors reach their short and long term goals, but also began to transition to adult and recreational training with the additional responsibilities of running a facility. As Director of Tennis at the Hyatt, I continued working with many different groups and have developed several exciting programs.

I love to develop players and help them improve their skills, understanding and confidence, however the most important thing is to ensure that each player enjoys the time they spend on court.

I will bring my passion and enthusiasm to all of the Stonegate community and will strive to provide a professional, safe and enjoyable environment for everyone.
